The schools in Manhattan-Ogden USD 383 strive to accept each child on his or her own level and provide him or her with group and individualized educational experiences that will help develop his or her potential to the greatest possible extent.

Our schools work to supplement the home and other institutions in developing the fundamental attitudes and skills in young people that are necessary for everyday living. We seek to help each student to understand our nation's heritage and its relations to other cultures. Our goal is to assist each young person in becoming a responsible and productive citizen in our democratic society.
